

What is the ISPI?

The International Society of Performance Improvement is a professional, interdisciplinary organization, made up of practitioners, managers and researchers spanning more than 30 countries. Established in 1962 in San Antonio, Texas a group of educational researchers laid the foundation for today's organization headquartered in Washington, D.C.

ISPI members are dedicated to applying and advancing human performance technology. By carefully selecting systematic techniques, both instructional and non-instructional we seek solutions for human performance problems.

Central Virginia Chapter of the ISPI

The Central Virginia Chapter of the International Society for Performance Improvement (CVAISPI) was created in 1988 to serve Richmond and the surrounding communities of Central Virginia. ISPI is the leading professional organization dedicated to improving human performance in the workplace.

Mission of CVAISPI

Our mission is to promote the concept and practice of human performance technology in business, government, professional, and educational communities throughout Central Virginia.

What does CVAISPI membership offer?

We offer the following opportunities:

- ☐ Grow professionally and personally
- ☐ Acquire new skills
- ☐ Meet leaders in the field
- ☐ Master new technologies
- ☐ Make yourself known in the field
- ☐ Gain new ideas for your job responsibilities
- ☐ Enjoy yourself while you work and learn!

What is Human Performance Technology?

Human performance technology includes cost effective, systematic methods and procedures that, in appropriate combination, improve the performance of individuals, groups, and organizations.

A performance technologist asks: What do we want to accomplish? Where are we now? Is there a difference between what we want and what we have? Only when these questions are answered do we design and test solutions. Too often, training is prescribed as the sole remedy for performance problems. The right solution is one that fits the problem. The key to success lies in the right strategy mix, used at the right time, to solve the right problem.

Human performance technology provides decision-makers with powerful tools for managing how people perform.
